

The UACTF Conference

Tuesday 5th March 2024 | Church House Westminster, SW1P 3AZ

FOCUS: Unclaimed Adult Child Trust Funds

There are over a million young adults, mainly from low-income/disadvantaged backgrounds, whose Child Trust Funds - worth over £2 billion in total - remain unclaimed because their young owners don't know of their existence. This conference calls for action to correct this injustice and you are invited to attend.

The conference on 5th March 2024 will be opened by Ruth Kelly, the former Treasury and Education minister who first introduced this programme.

It will discuss the real benefits realised by young people who have successfully found their accounts, and the work being undertaken to alert those who haven't claimed theirs yet. This will include contributions from NatWest and The Tracing Group, who are sponsoring the event.

To close the conference, Gavin Oldham will be looking ahead to the opportunity for introducing effective inter-generational rebalancing in the future.

There is no charge to attend this half-day conference, where refreshments will be available with an opportunity for conference delegates to network over lunch, after the close of the conference.

Nici Audhlam-Gardiner
Chair of TISA Financial Education Council

Danielle Higgins
The Tracing Group

Gavin Oldham OBE
The Share Foundation

The 'Unclaimed Adult-owned Child Trust Fund' (UACTF) conference will be free of charge:

It will start at 9 am for 9:30 am, and the formal close will be at 1:30 pm, followed by a networking sandwich lunch.

The Share Foundation hopes it will be attended by a wide range of opinion formers and influencers, including government representatives, regulators, account providers, trade associations, charities working with disadvantaged young people, local authority representatives, financial education specialists, media representatives and young people, and that it will thereby raise the profile of these starter capital accounts just at the time that their owners really need them.
